TOMAHAWK WATER OPERATOR RECEIVES STATE AWARD

PLOVER, WI - The Wisconsin Rural Water Association (WRWA) recently held its annual Technical Conference in Green Bay, Wisconsin. Nearly 1,200 water system and industry personnel met for four days exchanging ideas and technology through technical sessions and exhibits.

Bill Jelinek, of the Tomahawk Water Department, received the Association's prestigious 2008 Water Operator of the Year Award. This award is presented each year to one individual from each district that demonstrates excellence in the field of waterworks operation.

"The role of a water operator has become increasingly difficult as the reauthorized Safe Drinking Water Act of 1996 has imposed tougher standards for water utilities," said Ken M. Blomberg, WRWA Executive Director. "Jelinek has been recognized by his peers as a well trained and dedicated operator, deserving of WRWA's highest award for a state licensed water operator. Tomahawk can be proud of Jelinek's accomplishments."

Wisconsin Rural Water Association (WRWA) is a non-profit organization of rural and small water and wastewater systems. Its mission: To assist water/wastewater systems improve and preserve the quality and quantity of water resources in the State of Wisconsin". WRWA is the largest utility association in Wisconsin.
